Marubeni Nisshin Feed Co., Ltd. gained acquisition of ISO22000

In May 28, 2013, we gained acquisition of ISO22000 certification as the first compound feed company in Japan. From the standpoint that feed is also a food product, it is necessary to acquire ISO22000 of the management system regarding food safety for a company responsible for a part of food culture. We contribute to "securing the safety of food products" while conducting the manufacture and sale of feed and related products safely, securely, and with high quality.
